WELCOME TO LITTLETON PARK HOUSE

SHEPPERTON STUDIOS

This unique and exquisite Manor House dates back to the late 17th century and now nestles in the heart of one of Britain's most famous film studios. With its elegant black and white marbled foyer and original ornate fireplace, the breath-taking Orangery and private enchanted woodlands; it is the ideal backdrop for your special day.

Our professional team are dedicated to providing a personal, attentive service and a level of expertise which begins from the moment you make contact, whatever you are planning; a traditional reception, civil ceremony or civil partnership.

SHEPPERTON STUDIOS

Shepperton Studios is absolutely steeped in history, from its naissance as Littleton Park mansion in 1689 as family home for local nobleman Thomas Wood, through three centuries to where it is now as the world-famous, highly-respected film studios. Despite a devastating fire in the late 1800s, the first glimmers of its current base in film stardom were sparked in 1931, when Norman Loudon acquired the Studios for his budding film company Sound City. In the 70s, the Old House that now homes our Orangery and Coffee Shop was owned by none other than The Who.

During WWII, the Studios had their own part to play in the war effort; their prop-making expertise was channelled into building replica aircraft which were placed on runways to confuse the enemy! Its more conventional use is no less exciting. The sheer number of feature films shot at Shepperton is astounding – at over 150, this consists of well-loved, box office and independent pictures.

H stage's 6ft built-in tank posed as the Great Lake in two Harry Potter films, and has housed incredible rigs such as a full-scale of Sir Walter Raleigh's ship, and a full-scale Batcave. Other astonishing set-ups that the Studios have seen brought to life include 10 Downing St and Heathrow Terminal 5 in Love Actually, the 'tarts & vicars' garden party where Bridget Jones suffers her infamous embarrassment as a bunny, and the huge Western Woods of Sleepy Hollow. A very selective list of other films include the 1979 Superman, Alien, The Princess Bride, Notting Hill, The Da Vinci Code, The Mummy Returns, Star Wars IV, Shakespeare in Love, Billy Elliot, Chocolat, Gladiator, The Boat That Rocked, Wimbledon and Troy.
